2025 GUIDE TO INVESTING IN EMPLOYEE EXPERIENCE

Smarter workplace investments with data-backed insights

Why Workplace Matters Now More Than Ever

As organizations face economic uncertainty, evolving return-to-office expectations, and the rise of hybrid, AI-enabled, and asynchronous work, employee needs are rapidly changing. Today's workforce expects flexibility, wellbeing support, and a sense of purpose in both where and how they work.

In this environment, the workplace is no longer just a cost center—it's a strategic asset. When aligned with employee needs, it can drive engagement, productivity, and retention.

Our Data-Driven Approach

To uncover what drives better workplace experience, we:

- Analyzed data from 6,000+ employees across 15 organizations in 2024
- Used regression to identify which of 35 workplace features matter most
- Quantified where improvements would yield the greatest returns

Key Finding: Satisfaction with top-impact features was low—none exceeded 62%, with an average of just 48%. This presents a big opportunity for targeted improvements.

These insights shaped our list of the Top 5 Workplace Investments for 2025—not as a one-size-fits-all checklist, but as a practical starting point for making smarter, evidence-based decisions tailored to your organization's unique needs.

Workplace Experience Priorities for 2025

Elevate the workplace experience's role in real estate decisions to boost engagement, productivity, and wellbeing.

Align investments with the evolving purpose of the office and hybrid work environments.

Rally HR, IT, and service providers around a shared strategy to measure and support the employee experience.

UNCOVERING WHAT MATTERS MOST TO WORKPLACE EXPERIENCE

Regression analysis used to test the following 35 workplace features for their relative impact on employee experience:

Rank Order*	Workplace Features	Overall Satisfaction Score	Rank Order*	Workplace Features	Overall Satisfaction Score
1	Energy of the space	47%	19	Visual comfort of the lighting in my workspace	55%
2	Reflection of the company culture in the space	46%	20	Access to outdoor spaces	41%
3	Variety of quiet spaces	35%	20	Variety of active / vibrant / social spaces	36%
4	Noise levels / acoustics	41%	22	Signage / Wayfinding	54%
5	Availability of private spaces for calls	35%	23	Amenities in the workplace	47%
6	Availability of spaces for individual work	47%	23	Sustainability efforts at my site	50%
7	Commute	45%	25	Nearby amenities (e.g., restaurants, gym, transit)	51%
8	Temperature in my workspace	41%	26	Ease of use of technology in conference rooms / collaboration spaces	52%
8	Meeting room reservation system	54%	27	Access to plants / greenery	38%
8	Desk reservation system	37%	27	Available technology in conference rooms / collaboration spaces	52%
11	Location	61%	27	Communal / social spaces (café, kitchen, lounge, reception area, etc.)	51%
12	Available technology at individual workstations	55%	30	Private office design	40%
13	Availability of conference rooms / collaboration spaces	40%	30	Amount of natural light in my workspace	58%
14	Wi-Fi network connectivity	58%	32	Overall workplace layout	49%
14	Ease of use of technology at individual workstations	61%	33	Options to dispose of trash, compostables, recycling	62%
16	Open workspace design	45%	34	Workstation furniture (chair, desk, etc.)	54%
17	Availability of personal storage	44%	35	Décor / Look & Feel	49%
17	In-person technology support	56%

Despite their influence on experience, satisfaction with these features is far from optimal. No feature received higher than a 62% satisfaction score — a strong signal that even the most important workplace elements are underdelivering for employees.
